A second area of focus for us this year has been updating our disposition form and process. A representative committee was formed at the beginning of the current academic year to revise our disposition form and re-think our disposition process. Feedback from stakeholders pointed out that our previous form focused more on areas of professional behaviors as opposed to the true disposition of the teacher candidate. Research was reviewed, sample forms from other universities were examined, and new forms have been created and are scheduled to be piloted in the fall of 2022. One area of particular focus was to ensure candidates have the proper disposition to work with students and colleagues of differing backgrounds.

Each year, program facilitators develop a Quality Assurance Report that discusses the strengths and areas for growth identified by the EPP assessments, such as the PRAXIS exams, disposition survey, or teacher p kUC m 5 th , apph
